NARRAGANSETT PIER, July 10 .- The hief event of the week at Narragansett Pier was the laying of the cornerstone the new Federal Post Office by John H. Hanan of New York. The function attended by Gov. Beeckman of metals. The weather was ideal and at high noon the plaza was crowded with sople who had flocked from the surnding country

The beautiful gowns of the women, the parkling sea, upon which the Wakiva, he graceful steam yacht of Harry Harkss of New York, gently rolled with the swell, the terraced lawn of the in the background, all formed a never to be forgotten. Art peronified was represented by the gowns of many of the women, pink taffetas, blue and mauve all mingling in a on of color. The tendency this seems to be toward stripes and solid colors, the polka dots and pialds so frequently seen last year being en-tirely absent. Especially was Mrs. John H. Hanan's creation of blue and white ed silk, with parasol to match, ad-d, and other gowns parallelling this exquisite workmanship and appoint-ent led one to the conclusion that where can more beautiful taste be anjoyed than at Narragansett.

As Mr. Hanan, trowel in hand, made MANY GUESTS ARRIVING the closing remarks, "Cornerstone, I thee the Wakiva fired a salute and the ts of the gathered throng thrilled to first notes of "The Star Spangled
